Background information on George Stark, spokesman for Cabot. I'm sure we'll be hearing more from him.

"Lastly, Cabot has added George Stark to the staff in Pittsburgh. Stark joins Cabot Oil and Gas as the Director of External Affairs in our Pittsburgh Office where he will focus on media relations, governmental affairs and community relations. Prior to joining Cabot, Stark was Director of External Affairs with Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania and Columbia Gas of Maryland. During a distinguished 15-year career with Columbia Gas, he advanced to increasing levels of responsibility and eventually directed both companies' communications, community relations and governmental policy functions. Additionally, Stark worked for Burchart Horn, a consulting engineering firm, the Pennsylvania House of Representatives and the Department of Environmental Resources. He is well versed on energy and environmental policy issues. "We are excited with his addition and his background to help us manage all our relationships in Pennsylvania," commented Dinges."

Cabot rejected EPA's characterization of the sampling data and insisted that Dimock's drinking water meets federal standards.

"Cabot believes that the US EPA has a flawed interpretation of the data and has taken it out of context; this has resulted in an unwarranted investigation by US EPA regarding water quality. PADEP has extensively investigated alleged groundwater concerns in the Dimock area and concluded, using sound science, that it was safe," Cabot spokesman George Stark said in a statement.
